

Side View

Top View

The top view shows the layout of the components on a light gray background. The components are arranged in a grid-like pattern. The components are color-coded: yellow for the main body, blue for the base, and red for the top surface. The components are arranged in a grid-like pattern, with the yellow components forming the main body and the blue components forming the base. The red components are located on the top surface of the yellow components. The components are arranged in a grid-like pattern, with the yellow components forming the main body and the blue components forming the base. The red components are located on the top surface of the yellow components.

WAGASCI spill number 3275